REN®

SUSTAINABILITY

A WHOLE NEW WORLD
With 40% of all plastic being used for single-use packaging, brands are looking to reduce their environmental impact via alternative resins, full lifecycle models, with some going as far as reformulating their products to be solid and water-free, requiring no packaging at all.

PACKAGING IMPLICATIONS
Refillable, cartridge-based, zero-waste, full lifecycle, use of bioresins and ocean plastic, or highly recyclable materials like glass and aluminum

NOW TRENDING

Beauty

With the color cosmetics market projected to be worth $79bn by 2026 and facial skincare worth $180.3bn by 2024, consumers' desire for beauty does not appear to be slowing down. With so many new products on the market, brands must pay attention to consumers' evolving priorities to compete. How are lifestyle trends affecting the category today, and how can brands use packaging to better connect with consumers and fulfill their needs?

GOING VIRAL

BORN ONLINE
Social media and ecommerce have allowed brands to reach consumers faster than ever. Today, influencers are taking advantage of their large following by promoting and collaborating with big brands or starting their own.

PACKAGING IMPLICATIONS
Eye-catching, shareable, able to withstand the ecommerce journey, subscription-based, direct-to-consumer
